THE DAILY PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

Be just and fear not:
Let all the ends thou aim'st at be
Thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's.

TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1891.

THE nomination of Her Royal Highness Princess VICTORIA KAIULANI as Heir Apparent to the throne, will receive the hearty endorsement of the entire population, native and foreign. Her mother was the Princess Royal Likelike, wife of Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, who had already been proclaimed as second in the line of succession to the throne. The Princess Kaiulani being the only child of Likelike became the natural and lawful heir of her mother's right to the throne. She is now in England, or rather was at the latest date, pursuing her studies, and if she is allowed to continue them as was the plan when she left here for two or three years in England and America, it ought to give her the foundation of an enlightened and liberal education which will fit her for the high position which she is destined to fill.

BURGLARS AND BURGLARIES.

Another epidemic of burglary seems to have set in; three houses have been entered, several others attempted and in one case the defender of his own house is severely wounded by a burglar armed with a deadly weapon. For sundry reasons we are not inclined to believe that these crimes were committed by natives or by permanent residents of any complexion or nationality. They are "habitual criminals" who finding their usual haunts too hot for them, have come down here for a change, and take advantage of the easy trustfulness and light fastenings familiar here to get a living while here and a chance of a fresh start (in crime), if they find it necessary again to change their domicile.

Our police are men of fine physique and good individual character, but it is no disparagement to them to say that they are no match for the professional criminal who has graduated in any large city on either side of the globe. Even burglars do not generally ransack empty houses for the sake of bulky valuables, difficult of transport and easy of recognition unless he is allied with the knowing receiver who can so disguise and alter the appearance of goods that their former owner might purchase them without knowing it. Watches are dangerous prey until the movements are divorced from the case and the latter is in the melting pot.

What is necessary here is a good trained detective, from San Francisco if possible. He would probably recognize some old acquaintances here, and this man should make himself acquainted with the night customers at the saloons, "the unemployed loafers," or those who stick to their rooms all day "without visible means of support," with the over numerous watch menders and vendors up and about Nuuanu street; and most certainly the police district ought to be extended. It is not too much to say that soon after 5 o'clock every evening the persons of ninety-nine hundredths of the day inhabitants of Honolulu (not reckoning Chinese) and all their domestic property are out of police range, the whole force being employed in watching the merchandise, etc., stored in otherwise empty buildings. Whether a man's wife and children, to say nothing of his own life and limbs, together with all his domestic belongings should be utterly unprotected, because the whole force is not enough for both city and suburbs, is a question that we hope may be more sensibly answered by the next than it was by the last two Legislatures. Meanwhile somebody (very likely the wrong man) will be shot.

FAUST.

Some particulars of the opera to be given this evening.

The New York Opera Company will present Gounod's opera, "Faust," this evening. The sale of seats has been large, and there will be a full house. The cast is as follows:

Margherita.....Miss Camille Mouri
Marta.....Miss Fannie Myers
Faust.....Mr. Robt. Stantini
Valentino.....Mr. Sylvan Langlois
Wagner.....Mr. C. Dean

Mephistopheles.....Mr. W. H. Hamilton
Faust, a student in Germany, after a life of meditation and research, becomes disgusted with human knowledge, and with his own inability to unravel the mysteries of nature. He summons to his aid an Evil Spirit, who appears under the form of Mephistopheles. By the supernatural power of Mephistopheles, Faust is at once restored to youth, with most of its illusions and passions, and at the same time, is endowed with both personal beauty and splendid attire. Mephistopheles, through a vision, reveals to him the lovely village maiden, Margaret, with whom Faust falls immediately in love. He wishes to become acquainted with her, and his desire is soon afterwards gratified. Margaret, noted both for her loveliness and her virtue, has been left by her brother, a neider. Valentine, under the care of Dame Martha, a good, though not very vigilant personage. The maiden at first rejects the stranger's advances, but Faust, aided by the demoniacal influence of Mephistopheles (who is anxious to destroy another human soul), urges his suit with such ardour that Margaret's resistance is at length overcome. Margaret's brother, Valentine, when he returns with his comrades from the wars, soon learns what has occurred; he challenges the seducer of his sister; but, through the intervention of Mephistopheles, he is slain in the encounter. Margaret, who is horror-stricken at the calamity of which she is the cause, gives way to despair. Her reason becomes affected, and in a fit of frenzy she kills her child. She is thrown into prison for this crime. Faust, with the aid of Mephistopheles, obtains access to the cell where she is imprisoned. They both eagerly urge her to fly, but Margaret, in her holier feelings have gained the ascendancy, and places her reliance in repentance and prayer. Overcome by sorrow and remorse, and on her lips, the unhappy girl expires. Mephistopheles then triumphs at the catastrophe he has been able to bring about, but a chorus of celestial voices is heard, proclaiming the redemption of the repentant sinner, and the pardon for the unhappy girl. Margaret, foiled and overcome, crouches suppliantly as the accents of divine love and forgiveness are heard while the spirit of Margaret, borne by angels, is wafted upwards to its heavenly home.

On Wednesday, March 4th, Kauai witnessed one of the coldest mornings in a long time. The thermometer at Mrs. Isenberg's place registered 46 degrees; at Hon. G. N. Wilcox's it was 45 degrees; but at Hon. W. H. Rice's house the thermometer stood at 44 degrees.

To those who need a pleasant Tonic for any kind of debility, we can recommend Clements' as the best. For sale by HOLLISTER & CO.
